1 Introduction

This is a minimal example of using BibLaTeX in an Semantics and Pragmatics article. There are four steps:

 i. Supply the `biblatex` flag when specifying the document class:

  `\documentclass[biblatex]{sp}`

 ii. Somewhere in the preamble (the part of the file before the `\begin{document}` call), indicate the `.bib` file to import references from:

  `\addbibresource{guide.bib}`

 iii. Use one of the `\cite{...}` commands to insert an inline citation. For example, to output "as seen in Montague 1974":

  `as seen in \cite{Montague74}`

 iv. Call `\printbibliography` at the bottom of your document to print the full bibliography.
